Quick Tips

1 In this step by step, the Red Fox RFSQS-48003 instrument panel for the Messerschmitt Bf 109E-1 in 1/48 scale was used.
En este proceso emplearemos el panel de instrumentos de Red Fox RFSQS-48003 para el Messerschmitt Bf 109E-1 en la escala 1/48.

This reference provides the two pieces of the instrument panel and is recommended for the Eduard kit, however it can be used for other Bf 109E examples such as the Hasagawa kit.

Esta referencia aporta las dos piezas del panel de instrumentos y está indicada para la maqueta de Eduard pero podemos emplearla para los Bf 109E de otros fabricantes, por ejemplo Hasagawa.

3 The panels come completely painted, with raised and recessed details as well as a lifelike glass effect on the instruments, they only need to be glued in place.

Los paneles vienen completamente pintados, en relieve y con efecto cristal en los instrumentos. Solo hay que pegarlos en su lugar.

4 Here you can see the Hasagawa Bf 109E instrument panel onto which the Red Fox upgrades will be added.

Pieza del panel de instrumentos del Bf 109E de Hasagawa sobre la que añadiremos los paneles de Red Fox.

5 We have to remove the embossed details from the part by sanding and polishing the surface.

Hay que eliminar los detalles en relieve de la pieza lijando y puliendo la superficie.

7 Ultra Glue A.MIG-2031 was used to fix each piece in place.

Para pegar la pieza aplicamos un poco de Ultra Glue A.MIG-2031.

8 Adjustments for perfect placement were made with the help of tweezers. The slow drying Ultra Glue allows you to position each piece correctly.

Situamos la pieza en su lugar con ayuda de unas pinzas. El secado lento del Ultra Glue nos permitirá posicionarla correctamente.

9 To finish the areas that remain in the models original plastic were painted using Matt Black A.MIG-0046.

Para finalizar pintamos con Matt Black A.MIG-0046 las partes visibles del plástico en la pieza original de la maqueta.

10 The final result is excellent and requires very little work.

El resultado es excelente y con muy poco trabajo.
